ACCESS TO TEILHARD'S WORKS

Extract from a letter written to Marguerite on June 30, 1924, in the steppe, ten days north of Kalgan, Hebei province.

"[...] It took four days to cross the dunes from which I wrote my previous lines. Despite the charm of the clumps of willows and the little lakes that separate the sand hills, we emerged with joy from this ocean. Finally, I had an extraordinary vision. From the top of a hill overlooking the country by some 150 meters, I saw the strange spectacle of white rolling waves, speckled with green, which occupied a good half of the horizon and extended as far as the eye could see, absolutely like the sea. To my left, 5 or 6 kilometers away, a large nor (1). To my right, at about the same distance, a string of 5 or 6 even bigger nors. Behind me, the line of green mountains we'll cross tomorrow. All around me, at last, a grassy hill, planted with twisted old elms, scattered like apple trees in a meadow, over some ten square kilometers. And then, no one - not a sound. Three large, mute obos (2), with their paraphernalia of faggots and poles, attest that the place was sacred. There, I offered the world and Mongolia to Christ, whom no one has ever invoked here - in this region completely outside the influence of missionaries. [...]"

(1) a lake      (2) a heap of stones, both altar and road marker
